RALF BOHNENKAMP

Ralf Bohnenkamp was born in 1966 in Essen, Germany. He trained as a theater painter and has been working since 1992 as a freelance artist and printmaker.

Bohnenkamp uses layering and a reductive color palette in his work, and experiments with shapes and colors as well as mixed media. He is an abstractionist, but also a minimalist who is not afraid of color and expressive gesture.

Ralf Bohnenkamp's works enrich the cosmos of minimal painting with a sensual and emotional element. Though the pieces in their simplicity speak of physical principles, the basis of our material world, they transform themselves through color layering and materiality. The former clearness disappears, straight lines become irregular, the safe becomes precarious - this is, where the meditation begins. The pictures reveal a quiet color poetry, which only rationally cannot be solved by the viewer. Bohnenkamp adds his own interpretation to this tradition with color contrasts and a precise sense for composition.

The artist has most recently exhibited his artworks in galleries and art fairs in Bologna, Birmingham, Brussels, Dortmund, Düsseldorf, Essen, Bielefeld, Frankfurt, Hamburg, Cologne, Munich, Lörrach, Ratingen, Wiesbaden, New York, Los Angeles, and Utrecht.
